To the strains of the new collegiate anthem, the "Stein Song" of the University of Maine, we vainly endeavor to grind out these few bits of wisdom. Aside from the fact that the song has doubled the registration of the institution at Orono, we can see little merit in it. When the singers rattle along to the point where they shout, "To the eyes, to the lips, etc.," we feel like saying, "To the boats; men, we've struck a rock."

One of our personal observers has just crashed through the door, breathless after a trip from Baltimore. The night was dark, he averred, and he claims that moonlight is just as much afraid to fast driving as it is to slow—or even to stopping altogether.

While in Baltimore, this soul attended the convention of the Liberals, who diverted themselves by lambasting the power trusts at one moment, and seriously discussing the heart-rendering situation of fifteen drivers for a local dairy at the next.

Incidentally, the convention brought out the fact that Ontario gets its electric power at an apparent rate of about 30 per cent the rate in American cities.

Which reminds us that our esteemed contemporary, Nation's Business, blasted that theory four or five years ago by explaining that "government bookkeeping" is used. By this method, and for political reasons, such items as interest on investment, taxes, and in fact anything that can be covered up by appropriations out of the general tax revenue, are not considered. The difference in cost is, of course, made up on the tax bill. The small electric bill makes the people so happy that they do not mind paying the difference in taxes.

And the foregoing is now "power trust" propaganda. And if it is, we hope they pay us, for we're broke.

We see by the papers that 15 men at Iowa State College enrolled in a nutrition course and found that the course was only theoretical, dealing in calories and proteins and no food. They objected, and a laboratory period was given—but the proviso was inserted that the men had to eat their own cooking. We thought the Constitution forbade cruel and unusual punishments.

"Those expecting to report for football next year are requested to report exact sizes to Al Vogt of the equipment department of the gym so all may be assured of exact fit in the fall," we read.

Yes, but what will happen if some of them work as lemmens and others take up the 18-day diet during the summer?

"Speaking of football men," we see where the captain of the 1930 team has named a new shoe "The Colonel." We'll name one for them, if they want. Or let the editor say something like this: "I heartily recommend this shoe. It is absolutely the best that has ever been placed atop my desk, and I guarantee that it has had a most salutary effect on the anatomies of my reporters. (signed) Managing Editor."

Interfraternity delegates come into their own. Both men and women are to have their series of inter-Greek talk fests and cups are to be awarded. Right on the heels of the presentation of ornate keys to Interfraternity Council delegates, it does seem to be placing a premium on conversation to give a cup to that fraternity whose representatives in a debate can talk best. Some of them have practiced religiously every other Sunday this year.

While on the subject of fraternities, we are told that one harmonious body on campus required 44 ballots to choose a president. Some Democrats at least are members.

G. W. women entertained high school women at some sort of an athletic affair last week. Wonder if any jeweled pins were placed on gym uniforms?

Peace Foundation Places Donaldson's Book Eighth

G. W. Professor's Volume Ranks High On Authoritative List Just Printed

"International Economic Relations," the work of Dr. John Donaldson, professor of Political Economy at George Washington, is given eighth place in a selection of 26 authoritative books on world affairs recently published by the World Peace Foundation.

The World Peace Foundation is an institution which collects and indexes materials on international topics, and distributes in America the documentary publications of the League of Nations and other international organizations.

Finding an increasing need among American students, readers, and libraries for carefully selected bibliographies in this field, it recently sent questionnaires to university professors throughout the country who are experts in the subject. Two hundred forty-one responded with lists of recommended works. As a result, the "book selection on world affairs" was compiled by the Foundation.

References furnished by the professors were classified under such headings as Foreign Trade, Latin America and Modern European History. Books were placed on the lists according to the number of votes received. Among those dealing with the economic viewpoint, Dr. Donaldson's book received eighth place in the list of twenty-six.

An aptitude test will be given for premedical students on Saturday, April 5th, at 7:30 p. m., in Corcoran Hall, Room 29. Talk on Librarianship To Be Given Tuesday

Miss Shick Will Give Next of the Series of Vocational Talks

Librarianship will be the vocation discussed by Mary Shick, in charge of the Walter Reed Hospital library, on Tuesday, April 2, at 12 o'clock, in M-10, Major Julia C. Stimpson, who previously has spoken to the girls on nursing, will introduce Miss Shick.

Miss Shick, a Washingtonian, began her work as librarian of the Soldiers' Home. She is at present managing the library at Walter Reed Hospital. At Walter Reed there is one section set aside for the use of doctors and nurses, devoted to the latest literature on medicine useful mainly to those experienced in the medical profession.

The discussion Tuesday is for the benefit of the freshmen in particular, but women of any class are welcome. Students majoring in library science will find it to their advantage to attend this lecture, which is one of a series being conducted at the University.

Yesterday Miss Mary Anderson addressed the girls on the vocational possibilities in the U. S. Department of Labor, where she is Chief of the Women's Bureau.

American University's team is known as an exceptional one, as it has been invincible so far this season.

FRAT DEBATES TO BE STARTED HERE

Delta Sigma Rho Will Sponsor Interfrat and Sorority Debates

Two Talkers For Team W. Hayes Yeager, In Charge, Is Experienced at Intramural Debating

Interfraternity and interfraternity debating will be under way in the near future at George Washington University, according to an announcement made to social sororities and fraternities this week by W. Hayes Yeager, Dewar Professor of Public Speaking at the University. He said that George Washington Chapter of Delta Sigma Rho, national honorary debate fraternity, has just started to sponsor this type of debating. Much interest has already been shown in the announcement.

Participation is open only to social fraternity and social sorority members. There will be two series of contests, one for the fraternities and one for the sororities. The winning fraternity team and winning sorority team will each receive cups, presented by Delta Sigma Rho. Two active members of each organization will comprise a team, but no student who has participated, either at George Washington or elsewhere, in an intercollegiate debate, is eligible.

Meeting Tonight

Professor Yeager has announced that constructive speeches will be ten minutes in length, and rebuttal speeches five minutes. Two questions will be used, one for the men and one for the women.

A meeting in the interest of the debating will be held tonight, Wednesday, April 2, at 8 p. m., in Room 29, Corcoran Hall. All fraternities and sororities wishing to participate must be represented at this meeting. A fraternity or sorority not represented will not be permitted to enter the contest. Questions pertaining to the dates for the eliminations, semifinals, and final debates will be discussed.

New At G. W.

Interfraternity and interfraternity debating at George Washington will be something new, and much credit is due Prof. W. Hayes Yeager of the Public Speaking Department for its initiation. He is the principal representative of Delta Sigma Rho in attempting to put the debates over successfully, and has already received numerous encouraging reports on the possible outlook for this new phase of interfraternity and interfraternity rivalry.

Professor Yeager has had experience in initiating intramural debating at the University of Illinois, and the Ohio State University prior to his coming to George Washington.

LIBERALS PARTICIPATE IN BALTIMORE SESSION

Power Is Center of Discussion In Intercollegiate Conference at Johns Hopkins U.

A delegation from the G. W. Liberal Club attended the Second Annual Intercollegiate Liberal Conference held in Baltimore last Friday, Saturday, and Sunday under the sponsorship of Johns Hopkins Liberal Club. Representatives from twenty-five universities were present, and a move was made toward coordination of activities.

The discussion topic of the conference was "Power and Its Control." Waterpower for electricity was singled out for an especial amount of attention.

Norman Thomas, Socialist candidate for President in 1932, discussed the problems of power control in a lecture given Friday evening.

Judson King, power expert and author of many works on the subject, pointed out the next evening how there was an average rate in Ontario, which has public electric control, approximately 30 per cent as large as average costs of electricity in the twelve largest American cities. The legal aspects of the power question were discussed by Louis Waldman, former member of the New York State Legislature.

Propaganda Described

Paul V. Anderson, a Nation correspondent, discussed power propaganda. Mr. Benjamin Marsh, of the People's Lobby, described coming developments.

The students themselves conducted a number of discussion groups, dedicated severally to Forest Resources and in their Conservation, Oil, and the Theory of Profits. Sunday morning there was a business meeting where the students reported on liberalism in their various colleges. Swarthmore and Johns Hopkins were able to give some of the most brilliant reports. In Swarthmore the Liberal Club is actually subsidized from the school funds.

The G. W. Liberal Club expects to present a symposium on the subject of the milk-wagon-drivers' strike now taking place in several District of Columbia dairies. Mr. Judson King has also agreed to address the club in the near future.

Comments Invited On Radio Debate With Vermont Team

Andrew Howard and Hearst Duncan Advocate Complete Disarmament For Country

Radio "listeners in" have been invited to comment on a debate between the male forensic artists of the University of Vermont and George Washington University men debaters broadcast Wednesday evening, March 26th, from the studios of WJSV, Mt. Vernon Hills, Virginia.

The question, "Resolved, That nations should adopt a plan of complete disarmament except such forces as are needed for police power," was cleverly argued by both sides. Lisman, Sears, and Nelson represented Vermont, while Andrew Howard and Hearst R. Duncan shouldered the responsibility for G. W. supporting the proposition.

It has been announced by Prof. W. Hayes Yeager, associated with the executive office of George Washington Department of Public Speaking, that next year it is planned to broadcast a number of debates directly from either Stockton Hall or Corcoran Hall in the presence of an audience.

Paul Keough, of G. W. Law School, one of the announcers at Station WJSV studios, announced the debate program last Wednesday evening.

PANHELLENIC PLANS OPEN PICNIC FOR GREEK WOMEN

There was a meeting of all fraternity women and pledges on Monday evening, March 24, at 8 o'clock, in Corcoran Hall. Mrs. Barrows was the chief speaker of the evening, discussing problems and points of interest to members of women's fraternities.

Panhellenic is planning a picnic to be given soon. All fraternity women will be invited, and a part of the time will be devoted to round-table discussions of women's fraternity problems. A report of the Panhellenic convention in Columbus will be given by Margaret Selvig, Kappa Kappa Gamma, who was one of the delegates to the convention.

A HATCHET PROHIBITION POLL?

The Yale Daily News, leading a dozen college newspapers, is holding a referendum of university students to determine their stand on the matter of prohibition, with results that are being acclaimed by wet, moist, and even humid newspapers throughout the country. College men, according to the poll, are 22 per cent more "wet" than their relatives at home, these newspapers gleefully assert. Hence, since these same college men were but mere children when the Eighteenth Amendment was passed, the present generation is composed of heavier drinkers than the preceding one, and, of course, the Eighteenth Amendment is at fault for this demoralization of the younger set, who naturally would have been abstainers in the era of the open saloon.

At this point THE HATCHET would like to present several items which may interest the daily press, which has far too many fallacious ideas about college life, and is apt to jump at conclusions too quickly. In the first place, a careful check will show that a very small percentage of any school's student body is voting in the poll. This may be due in part to the fact that most intelligent students, along with most intelligent citizens out of college are weary of questionnaires on this, that, or the other thing.

Too, the questionnaire circulated as a ballot in the colleges is biased. Out of the many questions asked, a person who might want to vote "dry" has just one that he may answer. The questionnaire presupposes that all who fill it out will vote "wet," for it asks how often the student drinks, what he drinks, how he gets it, and how much it costs, and so on for a good part of a column. With such a variety of questions for the "wets" to answer, and the singleton for the "drys" it is apparent what replies are wanted.

Under these circumstances, it is no wonder that the "collegiate" element in the several schools, together with some who really do oppose prohibition on other grounds than that college students ought to, have piled up large majorities. A "collegiate" student would feel that his alma mater had been dishonored if it voted "dry." Such a situation would be almost as bad as if antique flivvers were barred from the campus, in his opinion.

Were we inclined to moralize, which we are not, we would consider the foregoing facts as they pertain to those who vote in the polls, and suspect that perhaps college students are more "dry" than their parents, if there were any accurate way of making a comparison.

THE HATCHET, taking a stand neither for nor against prohibition, is not conducting a referendum on the question, though invited to do so. Its reading public has not demanded one, and THE HATCHET does not need to back such a poll to increase its circulation. Moreover, the vote is being taken by other publications, such as the Literary Digest, where at least one may vote "yes," "no," or "maybe." And as a final factor in influencing its decision, THE HATCHET wonders just what student voters, residing in the voteless District of Columbia, could do about it anyhow.

Wilgus To Give New Latin History Course

Visiting Professor From South Carolina Is Expert On Latin-American History

Great interest is being shown in the special course in Latin-American history to be given during the 1930 Summer Session by Dr. Curtis Wilgus, professor at South Carolina University.

This course is for the special benefit of students of international relations, and for those interested in taking the U. S. State Department examinations next fall. It was last given here by Dr. Wilgus in the Summer of 1927, which was his first Summer here.

Dr. Wilgus is a prominent scholar in the field of Latin-American history. After studying at the University of California and in Spain, he took his Doctor's degree at the University of Wisconsin. He has written extensively for the Spanish-American Review, is editor-in-chief of a 15 volume critical bibliography of works on Hispano-American history. His recently completed textbook on Latin-American history which is being published by the Prentice-Hall Co., will be off the press by Easter. This book has been highly praised by experts who have read it in manuscript.

On Saturday, April 5, the seminar class in nutritional dietetics will go to Baltimore to visit the laboratories of Doctor E. V. McCollum in the School of Hygiene and Public Health at Johns Hopkins University. They will also visit the Dietetics Department of Johns Hopkins Hospital.

CLUB LICENSE RENEWED

The present license for a stationary wireless transmitter held by the George Washington Radio Club was renewed last week without any difficulty, as had been intimated. This marks the completion of a successful year of operation for the club sending station W3ACY.

The portable license for which they have asked may not be obtained until they have built a portable transmitting set; this will be completed during the Easter holidays.

GLEE CLUB BROADCASTS

The Men's Glee Club presented a program of songs to the radio audience last night from 7.30 to 8.00 o'clock, through the courtesy of Station WMAL, of the Columbia Broadcasting System. FOUR BALL TEAMS IN INTRA-MURAL CONTEST

Schedule Includes 12 Games To Be Played Between Now and May 10

The schedule for intramural baseball has been drawn up and the four competing teams, Columbian College, Engineers, Law School, and Pharmacists, will begin battling April 4 and 5 on the Ellipse or Monument Lot diamonds.

Each manager must present his team roster of twelve players, must see that his team reports on time, must keep scores, and be responsible for the equipment which the gym office is furnishing. This includes all the catching equipment and two good balls each game.

Because of conflicts with local high schools and teams in the Government League, games will be played from 2-3 o'clock in the afternoon.

Anyone wishing to take part should notify one of the team managers immediately.

The schedule:

- Apr. 4. Law vs. Columbian
- Apr. 5. Engineers vs. Pharmacists
- Apr. 7. Engineers vs. Law
- Apr. 11. Columbian vs. Pharmacists
- Apr. 12. Law vs. Pharmacists
- Apr. 14. Columbian vs. Engineers
- Apr. 18. Engineers vs. Pharmacists
- Apr. 19. Law vs. Columbian
- Apr. 30. Engineers vs. Law
- May 3. Columbian vs. Pharmacists
- May 5. Columbian vs. Engineers
- May 10. Law vs. Pharmacists

The week of May 10-17 will be left free to play off any rained out or cancelled games. The next week is being saved in case there can be arranged a series between the intramural winner and the interfraternity winner.

MODERN POETS GIVEN TALK ON AMY LOWELL

At a meeting of the Modern Poetry Club, held on Wednesday, March 26, in the Sigma Kappa rooms, a very entertaining program was presented by the acting chairman, Jean Kirkwood. The subject, "Amy Lowell, the foremost of Imagists," included a discussion of "color in Lowell's verse" and of "pictures from trifles, scents, and textures," which was entertainingly developed. The club meets each Wednesday at 4 o'clock.

They are as follows: President, Roberta Wright; vice-president, Mary Hudson; secretary, India Bell Corea; treasurer, Grace White; first assistant secretary, Inge Von Lewinski; second assistant secretary, Francesca Martin.

The speaker of the evening was Miss Green, chairman of the camp committee of social agencies. She outlined the camp, movement and announced that training season would be held at Camp Kahler, April 21-24.

Ruth Atwell, director of women's physical education, announced that the G. W. girls, as well as those from Goucher and American University, have been invited to participate in a Sports Day at Hood College on April 19.

The Winter Sports Banquet will be held at the Burlington Hotel Thursday, April 3, at 7:30 p. m. All women who have taken part on any of the various class or varsity teams of winter sports are eligible to attend.

CALL ISSUED FOR ALL INTERESTED IN TENNIS

All Entries Must Be Filed Before Six O'Clock April Third

Those striving for places on the men's varsity team and those out for intramural honors at tennis will compete in separate brackets in this year's tournament, which starts Saturday, April 5, on the Potomac Park courts. All of last year's racket-wielders and all competing for the team will enter the upper bracket to fight for the eight places on the team and for the Holt Trophy.

The lower bracket will consist of the intramural group and the winner of this section will also receive a cup. If a man in this group continues to win, he may transfer to the upper group, but, win or lose, no one in the top section may change.

At the finish of the tournament, the winner of the intramural group may challenge the team winner if he so desires.

All entries must be filed before 6 o'clock Thursday, April 3, because a team must be selected to participate in the tennis matches which are scheduled for early April.

GOLF TOURNEY TO START MONDAY ON TWO COURSES

Individual Cup and Places On Team For Winners

The G. W. golf tournament for an individual cup and places on the team will begin Monday, April 7, on the Rock Creek and East Potomac courses. From the results of the golf elimination, a team of ten will be selected to represent G. W. in this sport for the season with the winner receiving an individual trophy.

Because of the difference of the two courses, the present plan is to play 18 holes on each, but this may have to be changed to suit the number of entries which has already reached thirty. The entire schedule will be played as matched play elimination instead of medal scores.

No one will be included in this tournament except those who register in the gym office with Mr. Farrington or Mr. Sexton before 6 o'clock, April 4. The pairings will be made the next day and play will start Monday, April 7.

LECTURE BY DUNCAN IS HEARD BY HISTORY CLUB

At its meeting held on Tuesday, March 18, the History Club listened to an illustrated lecture delivered by Dr. George S. Duncan, Professor of Egyptology and Assyriology at American University.

Dr. Duncan spoke on the history and culture of ancient Egypt as revealed by the ruins which dot the Nile Valley and the treasures which recent excavations have uncovered. He related the courses of Egyptian life to the natural environment of the valley.

Illustrating the history of Egypt by slides showing enormous statues, delicate vases, pyramids and mummies, Dr. Duncan also traced the history of modern discoveries of the wonders there, from Champollion, who found the famous Rosetta Stone, to Howard Carter, who figured in recent investigations and helped open the tomb of King Tut.

CUBS IN SEMI-FINALS OF DISTRICT TOURNEY

Defeat Emerson and Orme Quint In Quarter Finals By Score Of 40-22

The Emerson & Orme Quint was the victim of the George Washington Cubs in the quarter-finals of the A. A. U. tournament played last Tuesday night in the Tech High Gymnasium. The game was closely contested in the first half, but the Freshmen drew away in the second half to win by a score of 40 to 22. The Frosh met the Potomac Boat Club in the semi-finals last night.

The Cubs took an early lead of 9 to 3 in the first quarter, but trailed 11 to 10 at the end of the first half. In the period after intermission, however, the Colonials forged rapidly ahead and their opponents were left hopelessly behind.

Lee Caslin was the star for the Cubs with 11 points to his credit, and Wilbur Cross led the vanquished five with 6 markers.

Sargent Speaks on "Alaska" Before Student Society Meeting

A lecture on Alaska, by R. H. Sargent, of the U. S. Geological Survey, featured the monthly meeting of the American Society of Civil Engineers, held on Wednesday, March 19.

Particular attention was given to the aerial mapping work of the Survey, by which regions otherwise inaccessible are charted and studied. The processes and equipment used, which included a complete floating laboratory for developing the photographs, were interestingly described. The lecture was illustrated by colored slides. Besides the members, sixteen guests, including several ladies, were present.

PLANS ARE MADE FOR SPRING INTRAMURALS

Golf and Tennis Tournaments Will Be Played Off-In Round-Robin Form

Plans for the tennis and golf tournaments were made at the meeting of the Intramural Committee on Friday. For the tennis tournament, the groups will be divided into two sections of six teams each. Three girls will make up a team. Each team will play every other team in its section. The finalists of both sections will then meet to determine the winner. No girl who has a major letter in tennis may be entered, and no more than two who have minor letters. The contests begin Friday, April 4.

The golf tournament will be run off simultaneously with the tennis tournament. Two girls from each sorority will be entered. This tourney will be played in round-robin form, with each girl playing nine holes of golf. The lowest group score will win.

Girls interested in either tournament, but not yet affiliated with any group, are urged to sign up on the card posted in the Women's building.

Due to the resignation of one of the assistant managers, this position is now open. Girls wishing to try out for the position are requested to apply to Miss Atwell or to the Manager of the Intramurals, Mary Hudson.

G. W. CO-EDS ENTERTAIN HIGH SCHOOL STUDENTS

MEN SWIMMERS LOSE TO CENTRAL HIGH TEAM

Hard Fought Match at Hotel Ambassador Pool Ends Post-Season Activities

Facing a strong Central High School aggregation, the G. W. natators were forced to their utmost last Wednesday night at the Ambassador Hotel pool. The meet was very exciting, and provided keener competition than did some of the intercollegiate contests. There has been an exceedingly large turnout at every swimming meet this season, and this one proved no exception.

G. W. closed its swimming season officially March 18, when it met Catholic U. The meet with Central was a post-season one, and no training had been done by the G. W. squad since the C. U. meet. While the Colonial men showed to advantage in many events, this lack of training was also evident. However, the results brought to light several potential swimmers who will be much in evidence next season.

Among those who scored for G. W. were Lyman, Goldberg, Adams, Polk, Inhorn, and Connally. This meet with Central closes the competitive season for the Colonials. Coach Farrington expects a large turnout next year, and with the extensive training which will be undertaken, a strong team is a certainty.

WOMEN'S GOLF BEGINS UNDER SHOREY, GOLF PRO

Anyone interested is invited to come out, but it is necessary to be present every time if one signs up, because of the reduced rate. There will be an intramural golf tournament during April.

ALUMNI HONORS CLUB BY BANQUET

Medical Graduates Give Glee Club Sum of Money to Use in Work

DEANS PRESENT AT LUNCH

Each Makes Talk On Some Phase Of George Washington University

Deans of the University laid aside academic dignity to join in conviviality with graduates of the University at the luncheon held by the General Alumni Association in their honor on Saturday at the Hotel Lafayette. The Provost and all of the Deans were present, and were greeted by over 200 of the University's alumni.

The luncheon was made the occasion for the alumni to honor the Men's Glee Club in celebration of their success in the National Intercollegiate Glee Club Contest. The entire membership of the Club, together with the director, Dr. Robert Harmon, and Mrs. Harmon, attended. The members of the club entered the dining room in a body and were seated together in a place of honor. Their entrance was greeted with enthusiastic applause. On behalf of a group of medical alumni, Dr. Oscar Benwood Hunter, President of the General Alumni Association, presented the club with a gift of $100 to be used in carrying on their work.

Dr. Hunter Presides

As toastmaster of the occasion, Dr. Hunter introduced the faculty honor guests, each of whom, in addition to considerable incidental levity, had a serious message for the alumni.

These talks, although markedly humorous, contained a great deal of hard sense, and much praise for the University. Several Deans pointed out the high caliber of the student body, while Dean Borden, of the School of Medicine, mentioned that every George Washington graduate who took the New York State medical examination this year had passed. This test is considered one of the most difficult in the country.

Dr. Buckingham and Dr. Mess spoke of the Veterinary School, now abolished, and said that when sufficient endowments had been received, it would resume its important work.

The luncheon was closed with an impressive rendition by the Glee Club of the Alma Mater song.

Marvin To Speak At Second Annual Engineers' Banquet

Nationally Known Engineers Will Be Present At Affair At Mayflower Hotel

The second Annual Engineers' Banquet will be held Saturday evening, April 12, at 7:30, in the Chinese Room of the Mayflower Hotel. President Cloyd Heck Marvin of the University heads the list of speakers, which includes several engineers of national reputation. Edward S. Pardoe, '24, a graduate of the School of Engineering, at present with the Capital Traction Company of this city, will act as toastmaster.

Guests will include representatives of the Washington Society of Engineers, and of the local branches of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers, the American Society of Civil Engineers, and the American Society of Mechanical Engineers.

The banquet will also be the occasion of the presentation of the medal awarded annually by Xi Chapter of Sigma Tau, national engineering fraternity, for the best scholastic record in the freshman class in Engineering. The medal for last year's best record will be given to Charles Louis Critchfield by Dean John R. Lapham of the School of Engineering.

"DISARMAMENT" TO BE SUBJECT OF DEBATES

Team Meets, Emory University and Western Reserve In Debate Contests

On Tuesday evening, March 25, the George Washington Men's Varsity Debate Team met a team representing Emory University in a no decision contest. The G. W. team, composed of Robert Parsons and Hearst Duncan, upheld the negative of the oft-used question of disarmament.

According to the opinion of the audience the debate was one of the best held this year. The Emory team won the Southern championship last year. Professor Yeager presided as chairman.

Last night Western Reserve was met in Stockton Hall in debate on the question of disarmament. The G. W. team, composed of Woodfin Butte, Paul Keough, and Charles Laughlin, took the negative. The Oregon system of debate with its familiar cross-examinations was a unique feature.

Norman R. Hagen, Charles Laughlin, and George Washington, Pennsylvania, tomorrow to represent George Washington College, on the same subject.

George Washington's trio will debate on the negative side of the question.

Dr. Lowell Joseph Ragatz Tells How He Remembers Names of All His Students

Says He Has Deliberately Trained His Mind to Remember Names Since As a Youth He Was Timekeeper On a Construction Job. He Reads Hatchet to Keep Up With All Student News

Secrets of a remarkable memory have been revealed by Doctor Lowell Joseph Ragatz, professor of History at George Washington University.

Dr. Ragatz is the professor who can call every student in his classes by name the second time they meet, spreading a general atmosphere of goodwill by the personal interest he takes in everyone even slightly known to him.

"No, it's not a gift," Dr. Ragatz told The Hatchet reporter yesterday, "but I remember from my college days how happy it made me to be known to my professors. I try to do the same." Dr. Ragatz's memory has been deliberately cultivated through many experiences which have made remembering names second nature to him.

Had To Remember Names

"The first time I had to remember large numbers of people," Dr. Ragatz said, "was when I was a timekeeper on a construction job, the Bulgarian, Italian and Turk employees knowing little or no English. It was necessary for me to remember their names in order properly to take care of their interests." Later, during the war, Dr. Ragatz occupied a position in the personnel office of the Quartermaster Corps, keeping the records of sick soldiers. The personal facts about these men, too sick to know even their own names, had to be stored in Dr. Ragatz's brain. After the war, while a student assistant in history at the University of Wisconsin, he exercised his memory by deliberately setting out to remember the faces and names of the students in his classes.

Now, the popular professor sets out to know everyone in his crowded classes by the end of the first two weeks of school. There are hundreds of them. Each one fills out a card with his name, address and home address, and schools he may have attended. Shortly after he is amazed and flattered by the uncanny proficiency with which Dr. Ragatz greets him, and his fellows, on the campus. "First I note people who have been to schools I have attended. I spot them by the seating arrangements and take the first opportunity to speak to them about my old friends. I always find out the name of any unusual ones—the tall, handsome boy, the very shy girl or strikingly dressed person."

Reads Hatchet Thoroughly

"How do I do it? I will tell you a secret—no one reads the Hatchet more ardently than I—not once, but five or six times, underscoring the names I recognize. I like to congratulate people on their successes."

Dr. Ragatz takes a keen delight in noticing new people coming on the campus. He knows everyone because he is genuinely interested in people. A friendly interest makes for a greater cordiality, promoting cooperation and goodwill. Maybe it isn't a gift, but it is a very desirable attribute.

G. W. Baptist Students Plan Active Program

Informal Reception Held Friday Evening; Other Social Functions Will Be Given

Members of the Baptist Students' Union Council, meeting in Corcoran Hall 17 last Wednesday evening, announced an active program for Baptist students in the university during the remainder of the term.

First among the events was an informal reception given Friday evening by members of the Euzelian and Young Men's classes of the First Baptist Church. It was decided that Baptist students would be urged to attend various churches of the city in a body, beginning Sunday night, April 13, at the National Memorial Church. Ella Lee Sowers, president of the B. S. U., announced that Ethel McConnell, of Nashville, Tenn., a southside secretary for the Baptist Student Union, would be here for a special meeting April 14. Suggestions were offered concerning a banquet near the close of the semester and for election of officers in May.

SCHOLASTIC FRATERNITY ADDS TEMPORARY OFFICER

On receipt of instructions from the National President, the George Washington Chapter of Alpha Lambda Delta, honorary scholastic fraternity for women, elected an additional temporary officer and completed plans for its installation as part of the national organization. The meeting was held last Friday night in the Phi Beta Phi rooms, and Mrs. Barrows attended the dinner preceding it.

Jeanette Bernstein was elected treasurer when the office of Secretary-Treasurer was divided, and her duties were removed from Mary Maculla, who now has the post of Secretary alone.

The installation and the banquet have been definitely fixed for April 12, at the Willard Hotel. The Alpha Lambda Delta women who will officiate will come from Urbana, Illinois, for the ceremony.

COLUMBIAN WILL DEBATE ATHEISM

Society to Present Third in New Series of Better Debates

Lively Discussion of Divorce By Mutual Consent Features Interesting Meeting

Another lively program is promised at the Columbian Debating Society meeting this Friday, April 4. "Resolved, That atheism is a greater boon to the masses than the existing religions in America," the third in the series of bigger and better Columbian debates, will be the subject under discussion.

Favoring atheism will be Norman R. Hazen and James G. Wingo. Opposed to them will be Karl Frisbie and Ralph Joyce, upholding, however, a thoroughly modern viewpoint.

All G. W. U. students and their friends are cordially invited to attend the debate which will take place at 8:30 p.m., in W-17.

Divorce Laws Debated

Last Friday Columbian Debating Society members heard arguments pro and con on the interesting question, "Resolved, That divorce be made legal by mutual consent after one year of marriage." By a very decided majority the affirmative was declared the victorious team.

Dana Quarles and Lewis Dembitz of the affirmative based their most potent argument on the foolish situations which arise under the present divorce system whereby if a couple agree to divorce each other the only way a divorce can be obtained is by fabricating a story of infidelity or any other accepted cause, on the part of one or the other. This anomalous situation which balks a couple who mutually desire severance of their marriage was the butt of derisive comment from the affirmative.

John Barbers and Gilbert Rabinowitz of the negative contended that to make divorce easier would increase the ranks of the "children of divorce," ranks which were shown to be already well-filled with depraved and criminal-minded individuals; and that mutual consent divorce would be to the benefit of husbands only, and, as one modern writer declares, "reopen the way to polygamy, this time on the installment plan."

PEN WOMAN ADVISES CLASS IN JOURNALISM

Dr. Mary Atkinson Speaks on "Preparation of Manuscript For Magazines"

Dr. Mary Meek Atkinson, first vice-president of the National League of American Pen Women, addressed the Journalism class on the "Preparation of Manuscripts for Magazines" Wednesday afternoon.

Dr. Atkinson, who was an instructor in rhetoric at the University of Missouri, and who advises members of the Pen Women's League on how to get writing accepted by the magazines, writes articles and stories on country life; two of her articles are appearing this month in prominent magazines.

"Since it is the ambition of most young reporters to write for the magazines," Dr. Atkinson told the class, "they must study the kind of articles in which the magazine specializes, and write the same kind, but from an original angle."

Dr. Atkinson, who has an intimate knowledge of the workings of the Curtis Publishing Company, to which she contributes frequently, explained the backdoor methods of having work accepted by magazines, such as "ghost writing," etc. She also instructed the class in the actual preparation of manuscripts for magazine publication.
